INFORMAL CONFERENCE

George Strom, Professor Keith Cowling, Linda Barnes, Ranscine Pelt, and Martha LeRoy.

The College Campus in Summer

During the Spring Quarter and Summer Quarter. our campus is looking at the very best. Walking in the shade of the ancient trees. amidst the other buildings of the college, it is difficult to imagine that one is living in the twentieth century.

It would seem that at any moment Scarlett O'Hara, Rhett Butler, and Ashley Wilkes might appear strolling between the Magnolia and Dogwoods, and that "The Old South" hasn't gone with the wind after all.

Summertime on Campus

It comes somewhat of a shock to see young ladies and gentlemen in modern clothes. One almost expects that crinolines and Confederate uniforms would be worn. Instead of a modern automobile parked in the driveway one half expects to see a carriage and horses.

But time marches on, and the old makes way for the new. Some of the old wooden buildings are pulled down.

Renovations are made, space is cleared, and modern buildings are erected. Libraries and classrooms take the place of old warehouses.

While the campus gives the impression of Ante Bellum Days, one has only to step into the modern classrooms and well-equipped laboratories to find oneself in the mid-twentieth century. August College is an up-to-date, modern, progressive place of learning.

The characters in "Gone With the Wind" would have been horrified to see modern fashions. One can imagine what they would have said about the clothes we wear in college today.

Aunt Pittipat would have swooned indeed if she had seen the administrators, faculty members, and students, had she visited our college during summer school when everyone wears unconventional attire. These informal shots made in the student center demonstrate.

Dedication

Miss Jean Williams

We the students of Augusta College wish to express our appreciation and gratitude to Miss Jean Williams who has been working with the commercial students for a number of years.

Miss Williams, like several others on our faculty, was a student of Augusta College herself. Through her guidance and help many of our graduates have gone on to successful business careers.

Because of her devotion to her work in developing the minds and characters of her students, and because of her friendliness to everyone at the college, we desire to dedicate White Columns 1963 to her.

THE MAIN ENTRANCE TO THE COLLEGE

Captions Outrageous.

Neither of these plates squeak—they can't be clean!

"I feel pretty"

Don't you think it needs a little more salt?
Mother, please, I'd rather do it myself!

You sure they're both married?

Hallelujah!

The two-headed janus.

P.W.—"My strength is as the strength of ten—because my heart is pure!"

(Note) "These are a few of the duplicate pictures we didn't use in the yearbook—we thought it a pity they weren't being enjoyed by you all, so we added some captions and here they are!" The Yearbook Staff

"O-o-o-oh! Dr. Robins!! The MIKE'S still on!

A.B. "NO, Mr. C. Lips that touch liquor, shall never touch mine!"
